

Digital Day Grading Rubric

Your project will be graded on the following considerations:

1. Have you selected and displayed on your site 4 primary sources concerning your event not assigned during the course? [5 points]
2. For each of your selected primary sources, have you written a 100-word headnote demonstrating a clear understanding of the text and posing one or two key questions for readers to consider? [5 points]
3. Does your site include a 400-word introductory essay arguing for how the documents you have assembled provide an original analysis of your event? [5 points]
4. Does your introductory essay advance original arguments-interpretations of your own? [10 points]
5. In your introductory essay, have you written a clear, succinct thesis statement of your central argument(s)? [10 points]
6. Does your introductory essay clearly identify the intended audience for your site? [5 points]
7. Do you adhere to the assigned word counts for the introductory essay and headnotes? [5 points]
8. Do you consistently use the MLA citation style? Remember to check your citation formatting at bibme.org. [5 points] Use bibme.org to construct your works cited.
